Subject: Export Control Classifications

To all our Valued Customers:

On December 30, 2014, the U.S. Departments of State and Commerce amended the export control classifications for different categories of equipment as part of the Export Control Reform Initiative. Tel-Instrument Electronics Corp, a manufacturer of aviation test equipment, has changed the export control classifications of their equipment to conform to these new regulations.

Effective immediately, the following test equipment models manufactured and serviced by Tel-Instrument have the following new export control classifications:

United States Munitions List (USML) Category XI(a)(11):
